TIME

Reflections . . .

In the mirrors of my mind, I see reflections of all the 1973 activities at Hale Center Schools.
I see images of the vibrant excitement of throwing the "dummy" on the bonfire; of a student playing in the snow; and of the band playing music in the rain; and I see the quiet meditation of a football player; of a student walking down a long isolated hall; and of a SC member proudly raising the American flag.
All these reflect the days that make 1973 a good year.
I see . . .

Reflections . . .

These reflections illuminate the memories of students trying to find themselves and each other.

I see enthusiasts involved in national politics and in the simple promotion of school spirit. I see teenagers in love, sharing their lives with each other. I also see students involved with spreading the love of Jesus to others.

Then I look and see the expressions on the faces of students who are thinking of all the times, that melt together into a prism that reflects life at Hale Center Schools.

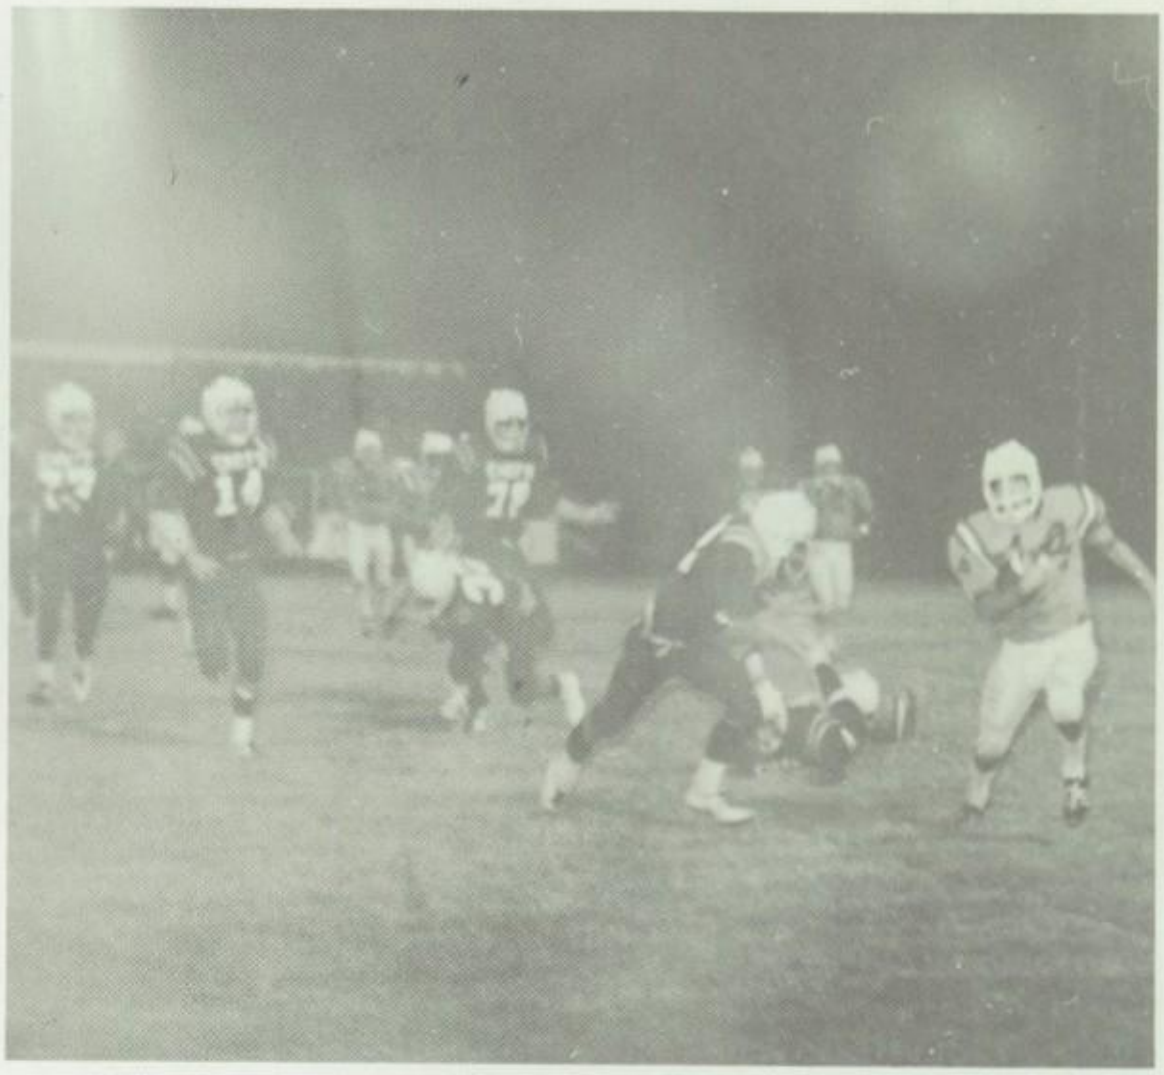
Hale Center upset Ropes September 29, with a convincing victory of 62-0.

The Owls led the entire game, with Jimmy Compton gaining the first touchdown early in the game giving the Owls a 6-0 lead. In the second quarter, Gary Miller ran in two touchdowns, followed with one from Miles Vasek and Tom Palacios, giving the Owls a 32-0 half-time lead. The Owls continued after half time by gaining more touchdowns by Joe DeLeon, Timmy Massey, and Vasek.

Owl Homecoming Win Pleases Crowd

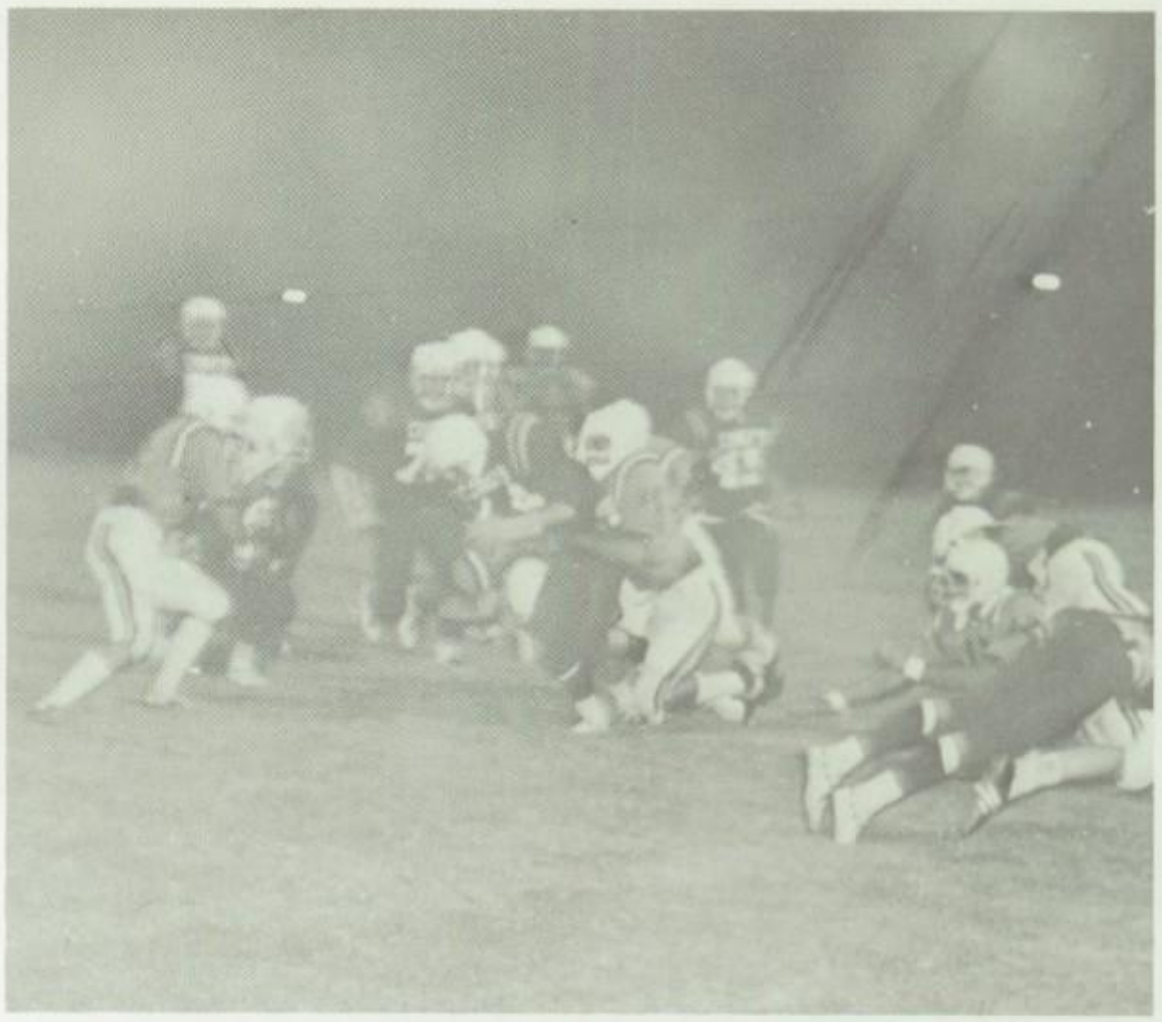
JACKIE NEEDHAM (14) IS relieved as the referee signals a touchdown.



JACKIE NEEDHAM (14) RUNS hard to escape the hard pressing Crosbyton defense; Tom Palacios (12) comes from behind to assist.

On October 6 before a homecoming crowd of around 1200 fans, Coach Tommy Lacewell's Owls edged past Shallowater 10-7, as Jimmy Compton scored the only touchdown and kicked the Owls into a 3-point lead. Compton gained 75 yards in 19 attempts on offense while Timmy Massey and Jackie Needham handled the defense.

In district 4-A competition, Hale Center conquered Crosbyton 24-0, running up their season record to 5-3 as of November 3. Pacing the Owls to the victory were Tom Palacios, Miles Vasek, and Gary Miller.



JOE DeLEON (21)STOPS a Crosbyton Chief to prevent a first down and gets aid from Phil Bourland (16) and Tom Palacios (12).

JIMMY COMPTON BURSTS through the OWL in pre-game activities at the Homecoming game; head twirler, Elaine Freeman, cheers him on.

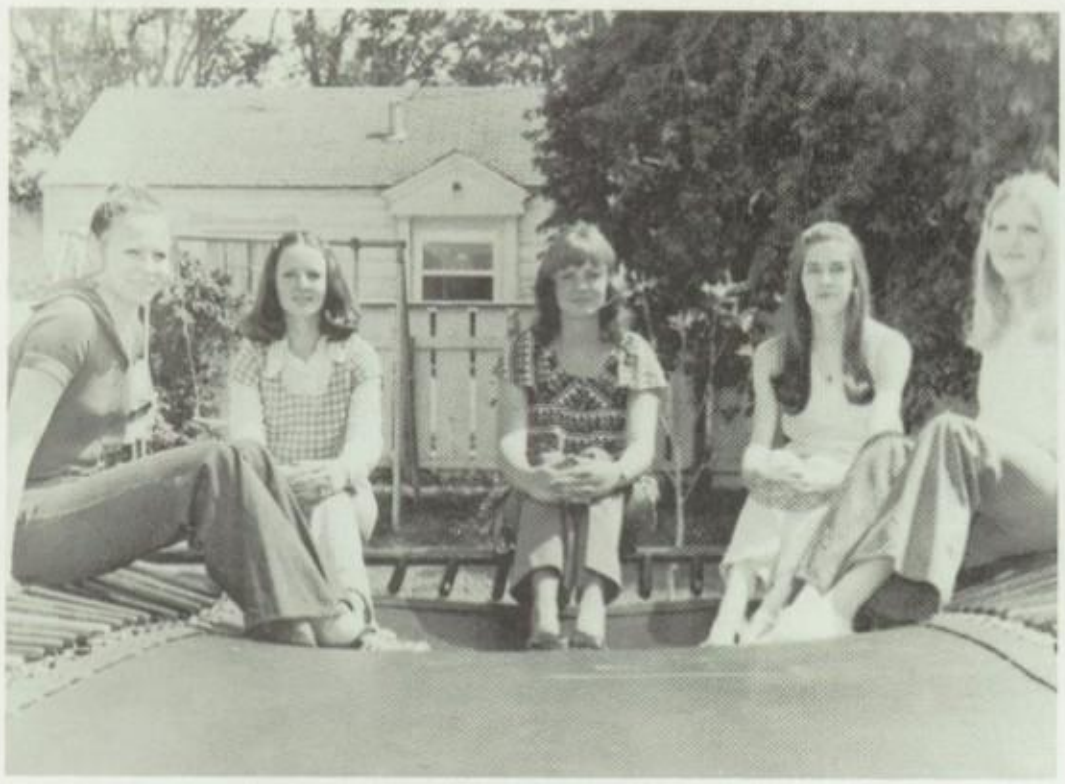
Outstanding Owlettes Obtain District Title



FIVE OWLETTES MADE the All-District Team. They are: Darwina Cozart, Randa Wardlaw, Darla Wardlaw, Jana Heath, and Dianne Law.

JANA HEATH (35), SENIOR guard, awaits action during the Bi-District game with Vega.

TERESA DOLLAR (23), COACH Judy Bowman, Darwina Cozart (33), Ann Moore (25), and Dianne Law (43), make the long walk back to the dressing room after their loss to Vega in bi-district play.

The Owlettes ran their season record to 6-2 on December 12 with a 62-44 victory over Cotton Center.

Dianne Law led Hale Center with 26 points, followed by Darla Wardlaw with 16.

All-district honors for 1972-73 went to Darwina Cozart, senior guard; Jana Heath, senior guard; and Dianne Law, senior forward. Randa Wardlaw, junior forward, and Darla Wardlaw, sophomore forward, gained honorable mention honors.

THE REFEREE SIGNALS a tie ball as Darla Wardlaw (13) tries to maintain her balance during the Cotton Center game.

DARLA WARDLAW (13) GETS in position for the rebound - in case the ball happens not to go in.

DIANNE LAW (43) SIGNALS for the ball, and at the same time gives her foe a "slight" nudge.

DARWINA COZART (53) TRIES to control the ball as teammates Vicki Teeter (55) and Jana Heath (35) move in to help.

The Owlettes, with the District 4-A title cinched, lost to Petersburg 48-42 on February 6.

Hale Center, who had already beaten Petersburg 49-70 in a game earlier in the year; could not seem to gain more than a 5-point lead, and lost the lead early in the third quarter. They fell behind ten points and then came back with 1:29 showing on the clock to 42-43, but could not gain any more.

Leading the scoring for Hale Center were Darla Wardlaw and Dianne Law with 16 points each.

Vega Defeats Owlettes For Bi-District

THE OWLETTES BREAK huddle with the spirit of winning at Bi-District.

DARWINA COZART LISTENS to Coach Fred Hase, who gives her pointers for the next play.

JANA HEATH (35) ASKS the question, "Coach Bowman, will I be remembered as a basketball star or a track star?"

IN A LESS important game than Bi-District, Darla Wardlaw (13) and Dianne Law try to prevent a Cotton Center player from making the inbounds pass.

Before 1,200 fans at Hutcherson Center at Wayland February 13, Vega beat the Owlettes to win the Bi-District title 62-59.

The Owlettes were behind 1 point, 27-28, at halftime, and gained the lead 43-40 at the end of the third quarter. They went on to gain a 54-43 lead with 5:30 remaining in the game, but with half a dozen turnovers the Owlettes fell to 59-62 at the sound of the final buzzer.

High point girls were Darla Wardlaw with 30 and Dianne Law with 29.

VICKI CRISWELL, NEVA Davis, and Terri Tyer, show anxiety at the Bi-District game.

ADMINISTRATION

School Board Meets, Acts On Policies

THE MEMBERS OF the School Board are Gene Alexander, Edward Weil, Davis Cannon, president, Walta Thomas, Robert Johnson, Jr. and C. P. Smith. Dr. Sydney Garrett is not pictured.

JON TATE, SUPERINTENDENT, points out an important provision to Gene Alexander.

WALTA THOMAS, BOBBY Johnson, and C. P. Smith give consideration to a timely proposal.

EDWARD WEIL AND Walta Thomas can't "believe their ears" at what someone has said; Bobby Johnson remains calm.

The Board of Trustees is a body that meets once a month to carry out certain responsibilities.

These duties are: 1. To consider and act upon policies for school programs.

2. To evaluate the progress and financial status of the schools.

3. To work with the Superintendent on recommendations for the school.

4. To provide funds necessary to the operations of the school.

DAVIS CANNON READS a notice to the school board as Bobby Johnson and Walta Thomas listen intently.

Tate Has Rapport With Students, Faculty

MR. TATE ENJOYS rapping with a student in his private office.

MR. TATE BUSTLES past Edna Cargill and Mrs. Wanda Harris as he rushes off to take immediate action on a problem at the high school.

MRS. BILLIE THORPE seems very satisfied with her job as Mr. Tate's secretary.

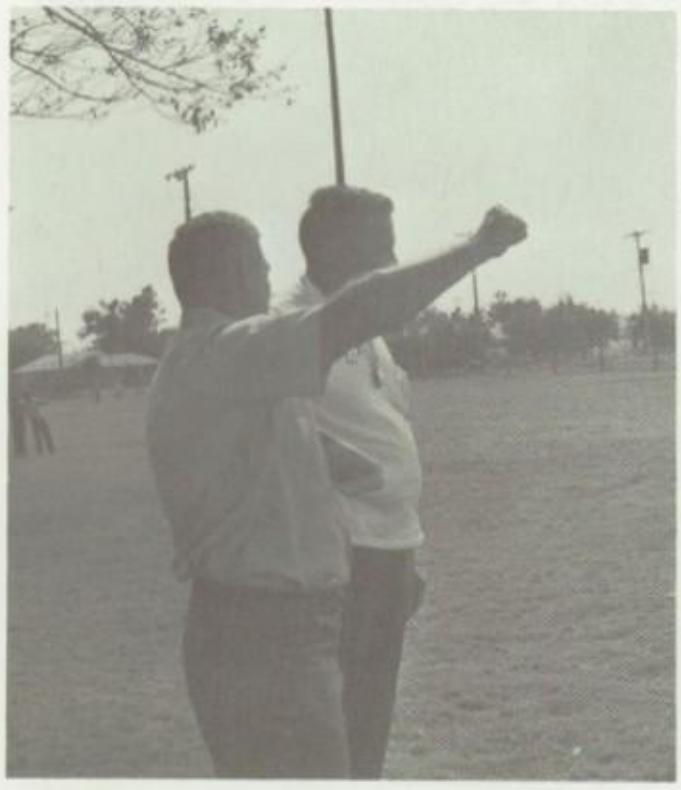
MR. TATE AND Bob Baxter discuss new developments in Mr. Baxter's agriculture classes.

Superintendent Jon Tate, who is serving as head of schools for his second year, has been actively involved in improving the outdoor atmosphere of the schools. Under his direction, close to 500 trees have been added to the campuses this year.

Mr. Tate is well-known for the close rapport he maintains with the teachers and students, which explains his immense popularity here.

Mr. Tate also wins praise for his total and wholehearted support of every organization in the school system.

Hill, Tyer Push Well-Rounded Education



MR. TYER GIVES Coach Davis a strong pep talk about his next game.

MR. HILL IS amused at what some student calls an "excuse."

PRINCIPAL TYER SEARCHES for the answer to his problem, written on the ceiling of his office.

"My objective," says principal Wayne Hill, "is to provide students an opportunity for a well-rounded education." Mr. Hill has been, for five years, principal of the high school.

Mr. Gene Tyer, for nine years, has been principal of Junior High. The main goal Mr. Tyer cites for his students is "Give them as good an education as possible."

MR. HILL ENJOYS a night out with his wife, Doris, at the March 23 Athletic Banquet.

MRS. LILLIAN TOWNSEN shows a carefree attitude toward her responsibilities as Mr. Hill's secretary.

MR. MOORE APPEARS to be shouting at someone down the hall at North Elementary.

MR. CLARK INCLUDES visiting with the students as part of his daily routine at Akin.

MR. MOORE REMINISCES on his old days as a high school coach.

MR. CLARK APPEARS to be deep in work at first glance, but a closer look finds him engrossed in a newspaper.

MR. MOORE MUST be resting his tired feet after a trying day at the office.

This year, Haden Moore became the new principal at North Elementary. According to him, the most important things a student should know upon leaving his school are "how to read, write, add, subtract, and multiply; and to understand 'yes and no.'

T. C. Clark, principal of Akin for five years, says his prime objective for his students is for them to "learn to read."

High School has three new programs in its curriculum this year.

Co-op Ag is a new program designed to offer a student on-the-job training. Students enrolled this year work in agriculture-associated jobs.

The new VAC project offers a student vocational training while allowing him to earn school credits at the same time.

A new area wide program called "HONDA" is a part of the school system this year, also. "HONDA" is a project designed to get the exceptional students into the regular classroom curriculum. "HONDA" stands for the towns of Hale Center, Olton, New Deal, and Abernathy.

Aides are persons who are qualified to assist teachers and/or administrators with clerical work. They do some of routine work which ordinarily bogs down the teacher in the education process.

Aides do anything from running the school library to simply listening to a child read. Their biggest advantage is that they can make very close contact with the students.

Personnel Have Outside Activities, Too

MRS. CARGILL LOOKS up from her adding machine in the Tax Office.

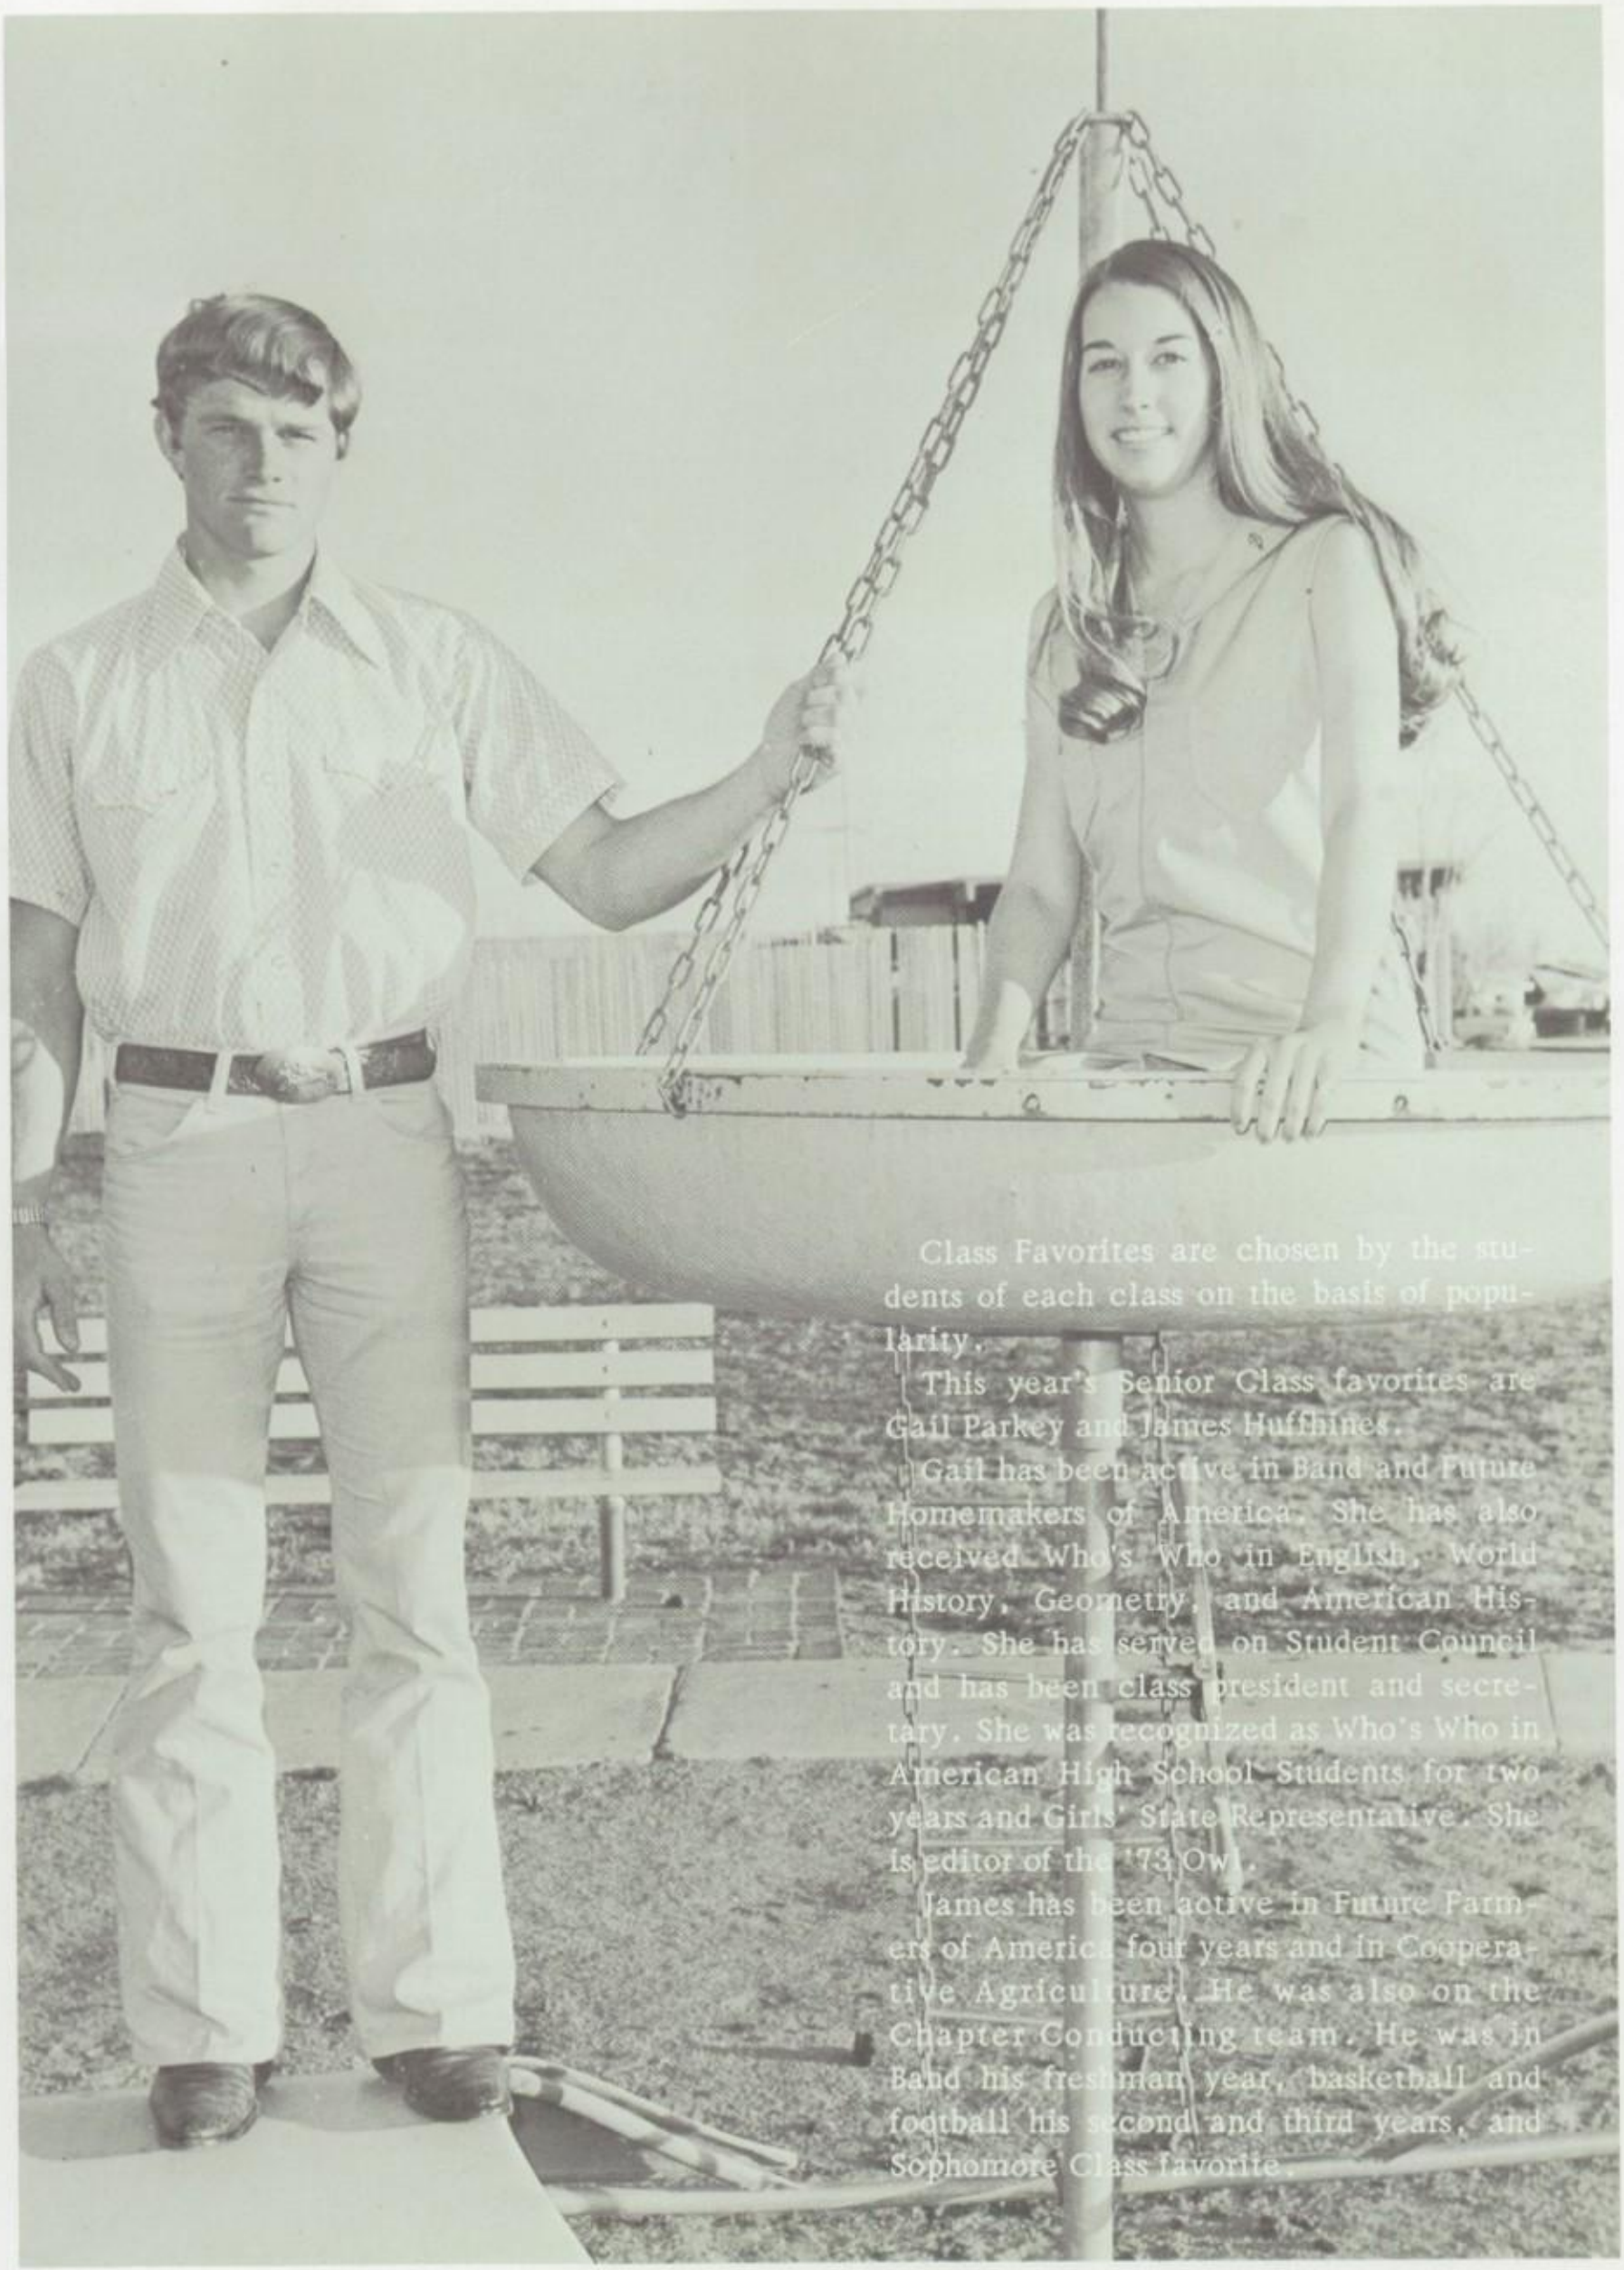
SENIOR DIANNE LAW, better known as "Mouth Carlile," attempts to boost the sale of the 1973 yearbook at a November journalism pep rally.



Class Favorites are chosen by the students of each class on the basis of popularity.

This year's Senior Class favorites are Gail Parkey and James Huffhines.

Gail has been active in Band and Future Homemakers of America. She has also received Who's Who in English, World History, Geometry, and American History. She has served on Student Council and has been class president and secretary. She was recognized as Who's Who in American High School Students for two years and Girls' State Representative. She is editor of the '73 Owl.

James has been active in Future Farmers of America four years and in Cooperative Agriculture. He was also on the Chapter Conducting team. He was in Band his freshman year, basketball and football his second and third years, and Sophomore Class favorite.

Yearbook Staff Engineers 1973 'Owl'

JERRY CHAPMAN, GARY Hacker, and Dean Brown, the yearbook photographers, seem to have their signals crossed.

CHIEF ENGINEERS OF "The Owl" are Gail Parkey, editor; and Carolyn Thomas and Stephen Stokes, associate co-editors.

The 1973 Yearbook staff devoted many hours of work and sweat to create a unified publication called "The Owl."

The yearbook, based on the theme of "reflections," mirrors the lives of the students and administration in their every day performances. It reflects 1973 in the making at Hale Center Schools.

Mrs. Darlene Galligan is advisor.

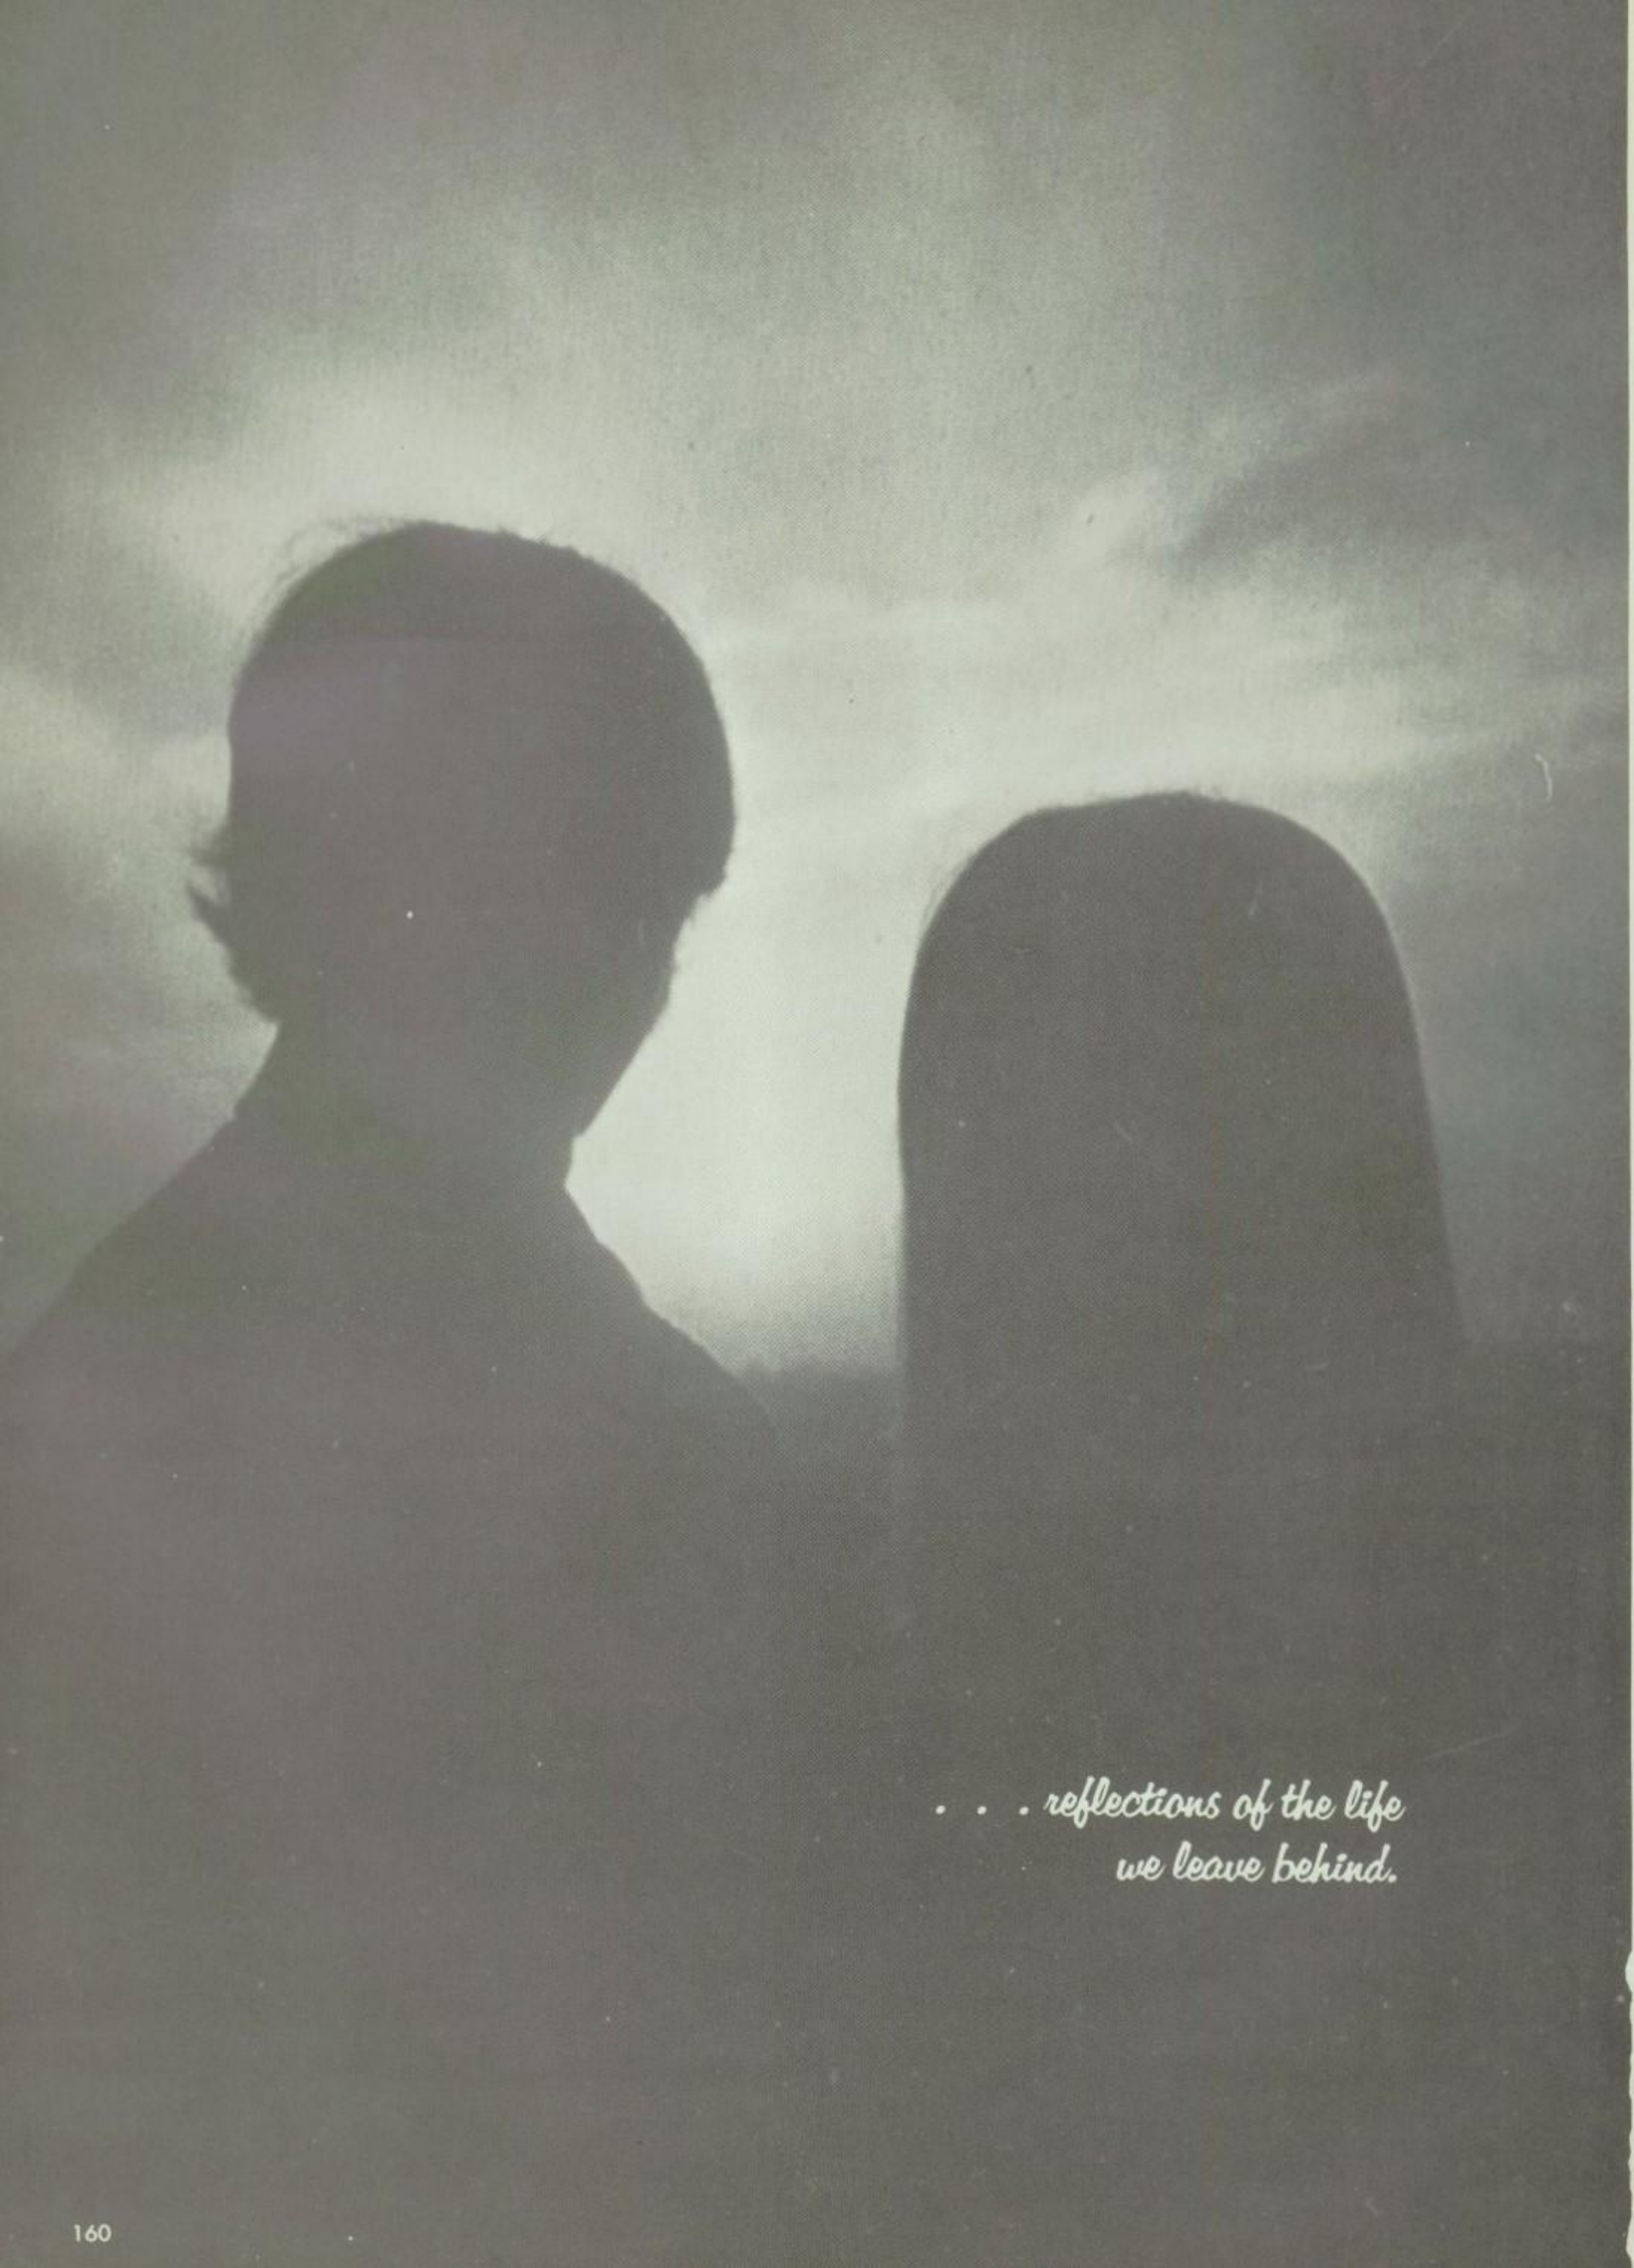
Reflections . . .

"Feature Faces" reflect inner feelings.

Faces mirror feelings of happiness, sadness, peacefulness, frustration, indifference, silliness, discomfort, melancholy, contentment, intelligence, ignorance, and even sleepiness.

Faces are images that portray candid shots of what 1973 really is.

I see . . .



. . . reflections of the life
we leave behind.
